

PraxioLogic Freeware License and Disclaimers 1.0

Copyright by Daniel Kian Mc Kiernan. All rights reserved.

In accordance with natural law (whose existence is acknowledged by the Ninth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America), copyright is hereby claimed in perpetuity, and all potential patent claims are renounced.

Redistribution and use in binary form is permitted provided that the following conditions are met:

The redistribution must retain the notices (including copyright, license, and disclaimers), and other documentation of the received distribution, and recipients must be bound by the terms therein.

The work and documentation must not be materially altered.

No endorsement for derived work by the author of this work is to be suggested without specific prior permission (of which written proof may subsequently be demanded), nor are the trademarks “PraxioLog”, “PraxioLogic”, “PraxioLog.com”, or “PraxioLogic.com” to brand the derived work without such permission.

This work is provided “AS IS” without warranty of any sort whatsoever. All expressed or implied conditions, representations, and warranties – including any implied warranty of merchantability, fitness for particular purpose, or non-infringement – are hereby excluded. The author and his licensors shall not be liable for any damages suffered by any licensee as a result of using, modifying, or distributing this work or its derivatives. In no event will the author or his licensors be liable for any lost revenue, profit, or data, nor for direct, indirect, special, consequential, incidental, or punitive damages, however caused and regardless of any theory of liability, arising from the use or inability to use this work, even if the author or his licensors have been advised of the possibility of such damages.

If any provision of this license is held to be unenforceable, such provision shall be reformed only to the extent necessary to make it enforceable. Further, if and when circumstances allow, any claim of the author reformed to achieve enforceability shall be again reformed to recapture as much as possible of the original.